HISTORY OF RED WINGS

The story of professional hockey in Detroit officially began on September 25, 1926, when a syndicate of local businessmen purchased an NHL franchise and then imported the entire Victoria Cougars team of the Western Canada League to represent the Motor City.

Although they were called the Detroit Cougars, the new club was actually homeless its first season. Construction of Olympia Stadium had just begun and the team played its home games across the river at the Border Cities Arena in Windsor, Ontario.

The Cougars played their first NHL game on November 18, 1926, and lost to the Boston Bruins, 2-0. Of the 44 games played that season, the Detroiters won only 12; finishing in last place in the NHL.

But the following year things began to look better. Jack Adams, a 10-year NHL star, replaced Art Duncan as manager-coach, beginning a 35-year career with the club. And the team was no longer homeless.

Construction of Olympia had been completed and the Cougars played their first game in the Stadium on November 22, 1927 against the defending champion Ottawa Senators. Appropriately, Detroit's Johnny Sheppard scored the first goal in the new building. But the Cougars were blanked the rest of the way and the Senators won the game, 2-1.

The Detroiters went on to play .500 hockey that season, finishing in fourth place in the NHL. In their next two seasons, the Cougars finished third and then fourth again.

Detroit's press representatives, trying to improve the team's luck, changed the club's name to "Falcons." But the next year the finish was the same — the Falcons were fourth.

In 1933 an American industrialist offered to buy the Falcons. James Norris purchased the Detroit Club and renamed it "Red Wings," importing the new name from Montreal where he had played hockey with a team called the "Winged Wheelers" of the Montreal Athletic Association. The insignia of the group - a winged wheel - struck Mr. Norris as a natural for a hockey team representing the Motor City. (The emblem became an automobile tire with a flying wing attached, and except for minor artistic variations, the emblem has remained the same.)

It was then that progress began. The new Red Wings won a league championship their first season under Norris' ownership — the first of 13 regular-season championships. In 1935-36, they captured both the NHL title and the coveted Stanley Cup — the prized trophy they have won a total of seven times.

The most amazing string of titles in NHL history was recorded from 1948-49 to 1954-55 when the Red Wings won a record seven consecutive league championships. During the same span the club captured the Stanley Cup four times.

Over the years, some of the great names in hockey have been associated with the Detroit Hockey Club. Thirty-five Red Wings are enshrined in the NHL's Hall of Fame, including executives James Norris, Jack Adams and Bruce A. Norris. More than 80 Red Wings have been voted to NHL All-Star teams, while Detroit players have captured almost 40 individual league trophies.

Since 1933, ownership of the team has remained in the Norris family. The elder Norris served as club president until his death in 1952, and was succeeded by his daughter, Mrs. Marguerite Norris Riker. In 1955, Mr. Norris' son, Bruce, took over as club president and has served ever since.

An end of an era . . . on December 15, 1979, after 53 seasons, the curtain descended on Olympia Stadium as the Red Wings rallied for a 4-4 tie against Quebec to mark the final hurrah of NHL competition at the Old Red Barn.

Just 12 days later, December 27, St. Louis edged Detroit, 3-2, before 19,742 fans who came to Joe Louis Arena to usher in a new era for Motor City professional hockey.

Bruce Norris has been intensely interested in hockey, especially the Detroit Red Wings, since his father, the late James Norris, purchased the Detroit Franchise in 1933. The Norris family has maintained ownership for over 43 years.

While Norris has many other business interests, hockey is still his number-one love, going back to age five when he received his first pair of skates and during his college days when he played hockey on the Yale University team.

Bruce Norris took over the Red Wings in 1955, succeeding his sister Marguerite. He is considered top man in the NHL circles, serving twice on the National Hockey League's Board of Governors, and was inducted into NHL's Hockey Hall of Fame in 1969. January 1978 Mr. Norris was voted "Executive of the Year" by the Michigan March of Dimes.

JIM SKINNER
Director of Hockey Operations

During the 1980 off-season, Red Wings' owner Bruce A. Norris appointed Jim Skinner as Director of Hockey Operations, giving him the responsibilities for all player and hockey negotiations.

After 37 years with the Red Wings organization, Skinner has a wealth of management and hockey experience. In his younger days, Skinner was a defenseman and teamed with Gordie Howe at Omaha in the old United States Hockey League. After his retirement as a player, Jim made it to the Red Wings as NHL Coach in 1954, and produced both the League Championship and Stanley Cup in his rookie year. During his three and one-half years at the coaching helm, he produced two League titles and one Stanley Cup Championship. Skinner took over the coaching job from Tommy Ivan in 1954, but resigned in mid-season of 1957-58 because of illness.

Since then, Jim has worn many hats with the Red Wings organization. He has traveled throughout the U.S., Canada and Europe to scout potential NHL prospects, and has funnelled many players into the NHL as the Wings' Chief Scout and Farm Director. In 1973 he was appointed Assistant General Manager for the Detroit Hockey Club and maintained that position until this summer when Mr. Norris named him Director of Hockey Operations.

Amiable, frank and sincere, Skinner is well-respected throughout the NHL for his astute judge of hockey talent.

DON GRAHAM
Assistant Director of Hockey Operations

In his new role as Director of Hockey Operations, Jim Skinner immediately appointed Don Graham as his assistant.

Graham is not new to the Red Wings' organization, having served as the Wings' Eastern Canada scout for 18 years (1954-72), but left Detroit in 1972 to become the chief scout for the Atlanta Flames. During his tenure in Atlanta, players such as Tom Lysiak, Guy Chouinard, Eric Vail, Brad Marsh, Dave Shand, Pat Riggin and the 1980 Olympic Gold Medal winning goaltender, Jim Craig, were drafted by Atlanta.

A former coach of minor hockey teams in the Toronto Hockey League, Graham added scouting to his activities in 1950 when he was appointed area scout for the Canadiens. Four years later, in 1954, Graham joined the Detroit staff as Ontario scout and named Director of Scouting for Eastern Canada in 1958.

TED LINDSAY
Coach and Director of Player Personnel

After three years as General Manager of the Detroit Hockey Club, Ted Lindsay takes over as coach of the Red Wings, and will also assume the duties of Director of Player Personnel. Lindsay will now handle the behind-the-bench duties, and work with Red Wings' President and Owner Bruce A. Norris, and Director of Hockey Operations, Jim Skinner, in coordination of player drafts and trades.

As a left-winger from 1944-1957, Ted helped the Red Wings to four Stanley Cups, eight league titles and was voted a record eight consecutive times to the NHL's first All-Star team. He played on the most renowned line in hockey history, the Production Line with Gordie Howe and Sid Abel. He holds the record for most goals scored in an All-Star game by one player (three) in 1950 when the Red Wings beat the All Stars 7-1. That same year, he won the league-scoring championship. Traded to Chicago prior to the 1957-58 season, played three seasons and then retired after the 1959-60 campaign. But after four years of retirement, Ted made a comeback with the Red Wings for the 1964-65 season, and was inspirational in Detroit winning the Prince of Wales Trophy. He retired again after that season with a career record of 379 goals, and 472 assists in his 17 NHL seasons.

Ted has been honored in the Sports Hall of Fame, the Red Wings Hall of Fame, and in 1966 was inducted into the NHL Hockey Hall of Fame.

ROBERT CAVALIERI
General Counsel

Bob Cavalieri arrived on the Olympia scene in 1978 as General Counsel and Administrative Director for the Olympia Stadium Corporation. This past spring, his duties were expanded to include General Counsel and Alternate NHL Governor for the Detroit Hockey Club. 32-year-old Cavalieri's primary duties with the Red Wings involve contract negotiations and to assist Vice President Louis Risi and Jim Skinner in the general hockey operations.

Upon graduation cum laude with a Juris Doctor Degree from the University of Michigan Law School in 1974, Bob entered the Detroit law firm of Dykehouse and Wise. He remained with the same firm until 1978 when he joined the Olympia Corporation.

MARCEL PRONOVOST
Assistant Coach

Marcel Pronovost played 20 seasons in the NHL (1950-1970), 15 with the Detroit Red Wings and five with Toronto. During his years as a defenseman in the NHL, Pronovost played a total of 1,206 games, scored 88 goals and assisted on 257. In 1978 he was elected to the NHL Hockey Hall of Fame.

During the 1979-80 season, Ted Lindsay hired Marcel for the job of Assistant Coach of the Red Wings.

This past summer, Marcel spent most of his time involved in the research of health and fitness programs for the Wings . . . "being fit is important in the way you play the game. It not only applies to sports, but to your everyday living and being able to live a full and productive life", states the "Flying Frenchman".

BILLY DEA
Scouting and Special Assignments

No one works harder for the Red Wings or is more dedicated than Billy Dea. 19 years of professional hockey before retiring after the 1971-72 season to serve as Coach and General Manager of the Detroit Junior Red Wings for two seasons. In 1973-74 Dea assumed the assistant coaching duties for the parent Red Wings with Alex Delvecchio and the late Larry Wilson. Working under Jim Skinner and Coach Ted Lindsay, Billy will assist with the scouting duties, and team practices. He is an influence to the younger players advocating hard work, and total physical fitness.

Ross 'Lefty' Wilson "scared the tape right off our hockey sticks" last spring when he underwent triple by-pass, open-heart surgery. But not to worry . . . Lefty is back in full swing, fully recovered, and as hail and hearty as ever. The 61 year-old ex-goaltender is entering his 30th year with the Red Wings. He joined the Wings in 1950 as Assistant Trainer, and assumed the Head Trainer's position in 1958. Lefty was 1976 Trainer for Team Canada.

Dan Olesevich was another goaltender who served as the Wings' spare net-minder during their championship years until 1958 when he assumed the duties as Assistant Trainer. 43 year-old, Ole, is actively involved as Treasurer for the National Hockey League's Trainers' Association.

Both Lefty and Ole were trainers for the Wales Conference of the 1980 NHL All Star game held in Detroit last February.

BUDD LYNCH
Director of Public Relations

After 25 years as the "Voice of the Wings" on radio and TV, Budd Lynch decided to retire from the broadcasting field, and in 1975 assumed the duties of Director of Public Relations for the Detroit Red Wings. But little did he realize that he would have to again pull his microphone out of moth balls. In addition to his P.R. responsibilities with the Wings, this season Budd took on the play-by-play duties for ON-TV (Subscription Television) calling the shots for 20 of the Wings' home games.

Budd was a past president of Detroit Sports Broadcasters Association, and has been involved in Detroit broadcasting throughout the years handling college football at the University of Michigan and Michigan State, as well as working the Detroit Lions home games with the late Harry Wismer.

Prior to his position as Red Wings P.R. Director, Budd was also broadcasting with the Television Network Originations in Detroit. His broadcast credits also include producer-director of the Armed Forces Originations with Canada's CBC International Service in Montreal, and BBC in London, England.

A very popular personality in the Detroit area, Budd is well-known for his ability to communicate and make friends easily. No one tells the Red Wings story better than Budd.

AL BLADE
Director of Marketing and Promotions

Al joined the Red Wings staff April 1980 as Director of Marketing and Promotions. In addition to the off-season ticket campaign and marketing for the Red Wings, Blade works closely with Budd Lynch in the overall duties of P.R.'ing for the Wings.

Al has been with the Detroit Hockey Club organization since September 1979 as General Manager for the Johnstown Red Wings in the Eastern Hockey League until the Detroit club terminated their affiliation with the EHL at the end of 79-80 season.

In his hockey background, 37-year-old Blade was play-by-play announcer for the Port Huron Flags (IHL) and while broadcaster for the Saginaw Gears (IHL), had the added duties of Director of Sales and Public Relations. Al's association with Wren Blair (owner of Saginaw Gears and President and General Manager of Pittsburgh Penguins, NHL), gave him the opportunity to handle marketing and sales for the Penguins.

ALEX DELVECCHIO

The most comprehensive coverage of Red Wings hockey is served up this season as WKBD TV (Channel 50); WJR Radio (760); and ON-TV (Subscription TV, Channel 20) combine to follow the Wings.

This season WKBD TV will carry 24 of the Wings' road games (and one home game on February 3, 1981). WJR Radio (760) will provide the radio coverage for all games not televised on Channel 50. The familiar voices of Bruce Martyn and Sid Abel will be heard again this year when Sid adds the color to Bruce's play-by-play commentary.

Martyn has been the voice of the Detroit Red Wings for over 17 seasons, and is considered to be one of the League's premier broadcasters. Well-respected among his peers, "Ol He-Shoots-He-Scores", is very popular with Detroit fans, local media and the Red Wings management.

NHL Hall-of-Famer Sid Abel has been handling the Wings' color duties since 1977. Former pivot man for the famed Production Line (Howe, Lindsay, and Abel), the former coach and general manager for the Red Wings, displays his vast knowledge of the game during every break in the action.

Additionally, the Wings will be seen locally on 20 different occasions via ON-TV Subscription Television (Channel 20). This year hockey great Alex Delvecchio will team up with the "Dean of American Hockey Broadcasters" Budd Lynch to describe the home-game action. With Budd doing the play-by-play, Alex will assess and analysis the telecasts with the expertise of a man who has come up through the ranks of pro hockey . . . NHL All-Star player, Hall of Famer, team captain, Red Wings coach and general manager.

Detroit's AHL affiliate, the Adirondack Red Wings, were a complete success in their first year of competition. Last season, despite problems such as the tragic death of coach Larry Wilson, the dismisal of Bill Purcell, and the shuffling of 48 players into the lineup throughout the year, Adirondack Wings managed to make the playoffs and lead the AHL in paid attendance. Standing room only crowds of 4900 per game jammed the new Glens Falls Civic Center which has fewer than 4500 seats.

Ned Harkness, General Manager of the Adirondack Red Wings and Director of the Civic Center, received the James C. Hendy award as the AHL's "Executive of the Year" at the League's meetings in July.

This summer, the Detroit Red Wings appointed Wayne Maxner as Coach and Director of Player Personnel for the Adirondack team. During the past five years as Coach of the amateur Windsor Spitfires (OHA), Maxner earned the respect and admiration of his colleagues and players. "He's an excellent motivator . . ." declares Ted Lindsay. "He'll coach a Stanley Cup winner yet . . . I think he's that good," adds the Spitfires' Business Manager Doug Imrie. Last year under Maxner's guidance, the Windsor club finished in first place in the Emms Division.

For the past six seasons the Detroit Red Wings have been affiliated with Kalamazoo Wings of the International Hockey League.

After having been a member of the IHL for only five complete season, the K-Wings won their first Turner Cup Championship during the 1978-79 season. They went on to win it all again during the 1979-80 campaign. And this time they left nothing behind! The K-Wings clinched the Norris Trophy, symbolic of their North Division supremacy; The Huber Trophy, representing the overall IHL League title; and, of course, the Turner Cup for a second consecutive season, representing their dominance during the playoffs.

Last season, in his rookie year as Coach and General Manager for the Kalamazoo Wings, Doug McKay was voted IHL "Coach of the Year", and saw his reigning Turner Cup Champion team set 42 new club records (and equal another ten), including most-wins (45) during their six-year history; the longest home-winning streak (13); and the longest undefeated streak(15 games) which also set a new IHL record.

Doug McKay will be returning as GM/Coach for a second season, and the Kalamazoo Wings will again be back as Detroit's only IHL affiliate.

Chosen by the Wings in the fifth round of the 1977 NHL amateur draft ... Joined the club in 1979-80 after three seasons with Providence College of the Eastern College Athletic Conference ... Proved himself with the Wings last season ... Showed he can handle himself against anyone ... Says Jim: "I play a physical game. I hit now and then. Some of my fights last season resulted from hard hits." ... For a big man, his greatest assets are his tremendous mobility, strength, toughness, a great shot, and his sincere desire to play pro hockey ... Can also play forward as well as defense ... Played with the U.S. National Team that competed with the N.H.L. players in Russia in 1978 ... Was the top scoring defenseman for Providence in 1977-78 ... Says Providence hockey coach Lou Lamoriello: "In 11 years at P.C., I have never had a stronger kid. He's tough and extremely intelligent. Jim's a great pro prospect." ... Single, Jim returns to the Minnesota area in the off-season.

Detroit's fourth-round pick in the 1979 NHL entry draft . . . Began last season with Adirondack of the AHL, but joined the Wings to stay in January . . . Was a pleasant surprise with his fine two-way play . . . Played left wing on a forward line of Dale McCourt and Mike Foligno . . . Knows how to put the puck in the net, tallying 107 goals in his final two seasons of junior hockey with New Westminster of the WCHL . . . Finished second in team scoring with New Westminster in 1978-79 . . . Says Ernie "Punch" McLean, his coach in junior: "John should have been a first-round pick but people shied away from him, instead picking the 18 year-olds that looked like potential superstars." . . . Has a great attitude . . . Is willing to learn and to try and improve his overall skills.

HARRY LUMLEY

Former Red Wings hockey great Harry Lumley was inducted into the National Hockey League's Hall of Fame September, 1980. Lumley was an outstanding netminder who spent 16 seasons in professional hockey and achieved just about everything possible: Vezina Trophy winner in 1953-54; the NHL's first All-Star team 1953-54 and 1954-55; and he backstopped a Stanley Cup winner in 1950.

Harry signed with the Detroit Red Wings at the young age of 16. Within a couple of years he was with the parent Wings to stay and played six full seasons with Detroit before he was replaced by Terry Sawchuk. He saw action with Chicago for two seasons, and was traded to Toronto where he played his best hockey. In 1953-54 with the Leafs, he set the modern record for shutouts in one season (13) which lasted until Tony Esposito earned 14 in 1969-70.

Lumley played a total of 15 full seasons in the NHL with a total of 804 games, and earned a total of 71 shutouts (plus even more in 76 playoff games). His goals-against record of 2.75 in regular season action, and 2.62 in playoffs ranks with the best of any era.

Harry Lumley completed his NHL career with Boston, wrapping up a three-year stint in 1959-60, then retired to become a successful businessman in his hometown of Owen Sound, Ontario.
